Department of Linguistics
University of California, Santa Barbara
Santa Barbara, CA 93106-3100
805-893-3776

I understand that student and faculty researchers of the Linguistics Department at the University of California, Santa Barbara, seek to study language as it is used in everyday life. In consideration of their efforts, I agree to the use of recordings and transcripts of conversations and other kinds of speaking in which I was a participant.

I understand that my participation is voluntary, and that I have the right to hear, edit, or withdraw any portion of the recordings before they become part of the permanent collection of the Linguistics Department. I understand further that in order to help preserve my privacy my last name will not be attached to, or in any way associated with, the recordings or transcripts. In addition, identifying information such as first names and place names will be changed in the transcripts.

I understand that these recordings become the property of the University of California. I understand that the Linguistics Department at the University of California, Santa Barbara, will, at its discretion, disseminate these recordings and transcripts, or portions thereof, to researchers, educators, students, and anyone interested in learning about language as it is used in everyday life, by any or all means including print, electronic media, and the Internet.

I understand that if I have any questions regarding my rights under this agreement, I may contact the staff of the Human Subjects Committee in the Office of Research (telephone number 805-893-3807).
